SNHR Documented One Massacre, One Medical Worker Victim and 13 Victims Who Died Due to Torture

Tuesday 1 September 2020

The Syrian Network for Human Rights (SNHR), founded in June 2011, is a non-governmental, independent group that is considered a primary source for the OHCHR on all death toll-related analyses in Syria.

I. Background and Methodology

The documentation process to register victims killed in Syria is one of the most important roles performed by the Syrian Network for Human Rights (SNHR) since March 2011. This is all the more crucial since murder is the most prevalent of all the violations perpetrated, and the one which most profoundly affects the Syrian people, with countless families suffering incalculable and irreparable trauma through the loss of fathers, mothers, brothers, sisters, friends, etc.

These violations have become so widespread primarily through Syrian regime forces’ and affiliated militias’ systematic killing of civilians, who were almost the only perpetrators of killings from the aforementioned date up to the beginning of 2012. The regime began by using tanks and artillery, then progressed to also deploying warplanes and helicopter gunships which have deployed barrel bombs, in addition to Scud missiles and chemical weapons.

The entry of several other parties into the Syrian conflict has further increased the importance and complexity of documenting the victims killed in Syria.

In August 2020, we documented an increase in the proportion of victims among Syrian citizens killed by landmines in different governorates and regions in Syria, indicating that none of the controlling forces have made any significant efforts in the process of removing landmines, or trying to determine their locations and fence them off, or warn the local population about them.

The SNHR, as a member of the International Campaign to Ban Landmines - Cluster Munition Coalition (ICBL-CMC), affirms its endeavor within this international coalition to implement a comprehensive ban on the use of landmines and cluster munitions, and to ensure that this becomes a customary law, which is very close to achieving; the number of states parties to the Mine Ban Treaty (Ottawa Treaty) now includes 164 member states, with International Humanitarian Law greatly restricting the use of landmines, which are considered among the most lethal indiscriminate weapons. The vast majority of their victims are civilians, and the threat from the use of landmines affects local communities for years.

Methodology:

This report records the death toll of victims SNHR documented their deaths at the hands of the parties to the conflict and the controlling forces in Syria in August 2020, particularly focusing on those victims killed under torture, and victims amongst media, medical and Civil Defense personnel, paying particular attention to those massacres which the SNHR was able to document that were committed by the parties to the conflict and the controlling forces.

We should note that in this context we use the term “massacre” to refer to any attack that resulted in the deaths of five or more peaceful individuals in the same incident.

The report also includes an outline of the most notable incidents during this period. Finally, we maintain the full details of every incident on the SNHR database.
The report catalogues the death toll of victims according to the perpetrator parties in the Syrian conflict. Accurately ascribing responsibility sometimes requires more time and investigation than usual, especially in the case of joint attacks. On some occasions, when we are unable to definitively assign responsibility for particular attacks to one specific party, as in the case of air strikes by Syrian or Russian warplanes, Syrian-Iranian attacks, or attacks by Syrian Democratic Forces and US-led coalition, we indicate that responsibility for these attacks is held jointly by the parties in question until we are able to likely establish which one of the parties was responsible, or it’s proved that the attack was a joint initiative carried out in coordination between the two parties.

In addition, in cases where we are unable to definitively assign responsibility for a particular killing to one of two possible parties because of the area’s proximity to the lines of engagement, the use of similar weapons, or other reasons, the incident is categorized among ‘other parties’ until we have sufficient evidence to conclusively assign responsibility for the violation to one of the two parties.

The parties to the conflict who this report documents as committing extrajudicial killings are:

A. The main parties:
   • Syrian Regime forces (army, security, local militias, and Shiite foreign militias)
   • Russian forces
   • ISIS
   • The Armed Opposition/ The Syrian National Army
   • Kurdish-led Syrian Democratic forces (the Democratic Union Party)

B. Other parties

Through use of SNHR’s extensive database, we can catalogue the victims according to the governorate where they were killed, and also by the governorate from which they originally came. This report catalogues the death toll of victims according to the governorate in which they were killed, rather than by the governorate they originally came from.

In relation to victims amongst armed forces, these are divided into two categories:
- Victims from the armed opposition: We face additional difficulties in assessing these casualties as many of these victims are killed on battlefronts rather than in cities or other urban settlements. We are also often unable to obtain information on the victims such as names, photographs and other important personal details due to the reluctance of armed opposition forces to reveal such sensitive information for security concerns among other reasons. Therefore, the actual number of victims is far higher than the number documented.
- Victims from Syrian Regime force, ISIS, extremist Islamist groups, and Kurdish Democratic Union Party forces: It is almost impossible to access information about this category of victims and the margin of error is considerably higher than usual due to the lack of any applicable methodology in this type of documentation, since these parties don’t publish, reveal, or document information about their casualties. From our perspective and given these facts, it is rational to conclude that the statistics issued by some media outlets concerning casualties amongst this category of victims are inaccurate or methodologically unsound, being far from meeting even the most basic criteria for objective assessment.

In this report, we record only the toll of civilian casualties, whose deaths we were able to document during the last month. Some of the victims documented may have been killed months or even years ago, as in some cases of death due to torture; in these cases, where the deaths have only recently been confirmed, we include two dates, the date when we were able to document the victim’s death, and the date on which we think the death occurred.

The methodology adopted by the Syrian Network for Human Rights in documenting the victims can be seen at this link1.

This report draws upon the ongoing daily monitoring of news and developments by SNHR’s team, and on information from our extensive network of various sources that has been built up over the course of our work since 2011. When we receive information or learn some news about an incident via the internet or media outlets, our team works to follow up these reports and attempts to verify information and collect evidence and data. In some cases, researchers are able to visit the incident location promptly. However, this is a rarity in light of the incredibly high security risks, and given the frequency of daily violation incidents and the scarcity of human and material resources. Therefore, the opportunities available to access evidence vary between one case and another, and consequently the level of certainty in classification of each incident varies. SNHR’s customary policy in such cases is to rely on accounts from survivors who experienced the violation firsthand; in a second degree, who witnessed or photographed this violation, in addition to analyzing available materials from open sources such as the Internet and media outlets; third, by talking with medical personnel who treated the individuals injured in these incidents, examined the deceased victims’ bodies, and identified the cause of death. The SNHR Rights also provides a special form that can be filled in with victims’ names and personal information so that the Victims Documentation Department can follow up on this information and verify its accuracy and then include it in the database.

SNHR has analyzed videos and photographs that our team documented, which were posted online, or submitted by local activists via e-mail, Skype, or social media platforms. These videos and photos show, amongst other things, the sites of attacks, and bodies of the victims and the injured, whilst other photos may show the bodies of victims killed under torture, and of victims amongst medical and media personnel who died in attacks carried out by parties to the conflict and the controlling forces. We also retain copies of all the videos and photographs included in these reports, which are also outlined in this report, in a confidential electronic database and in hard disk backup copies, and we ensure always that all these data are stored with their original source.

We do not claim, however, that we have documented all cases, given the severe prohibitions, restrictions and persecution by the Syrian Regime forces and some other armed groups.

The death toll of victims detailed on SNHR’s database includes extrajudicial killings by the controlling forces which occurred as a violation of either international human rights law or international humanitarian law or both, but does not include cases of natural deaths or those which occurred because of disputes between members of society or other such issues.

Our investigations confirm that all of the attacks included in this report that were carried out by the parties to the conflict and the controlling forces in Syria targeted civilian areas where we documented no military presence or armories before or during the attacks, and in which the perpetrators failed to issue any warnings to civilians prior to any of the attacks as required by international humanitarian law.

The type and level of evidence available varies from one case to another. In light of the aforementioned challenges, the legal qualification of many of the incidents documented may be subject to change based on any new evidence or leads which emerge after the report is released. We shall update our data archive with any such items of evidence and leads as soon as they become available. Meanwhile, although many incidents don’t technically constitute a violation of international humanitarian law under the terms of such legislation, they involved collateral damage, so we have recorded and archived these incidents to document what happened historically and to preserve these as part of the national record, although we don’t qualify these specific incidents as crimes. There is great difficulty in determining the party that planted landmines, due to the multiplicity of forces controlling the areas in which these explosions occurred, and therefore we do not attribute the vast majority of killings due to landmines to a specific party. None of the perpetrator forces in the Syrian conflict have revealed maps of the places where they planted landmines.

This report only represents the bare minimum of the actual severity and magnitude of the violations that occurred. Also, it doesn’t include any analysis of the profound social, economic, and psychological ramifications.
II. The Most Notable Work Carried Out by SNHR on the Extrajudicial Killing Issue:

Since 2011, the SNHR has created complex electronic programs to archive and categorize the victims’ data, which the team collects and verifies, enabling us to catalogue the victims according to their gender, age, the date and place of death, method of killing used, type of weapon used, and perpetrator party, and to make comparisons between these parties. We can also distribute the death toll according to the governorate in which the incident of death occurred, and according to the governorate from which the victim originated, in order to show the extent of the loss suffered by the people of that governorate, and enables us to accurately ascertain the highest rates of violence documented in the case of each violation. SNHR’s Victim Documentation Department team constantly updates its comprehensive database, with all the data added to the SNHR’s database being retained securely, and several backup copies being stored in different locations.

Since 2011, we have also been exceptionally concerned with incidents involving the killing of children and women, where there is hardly a statistic recorded on our database that does not include these, due to the vulnerability of these groups in the community, and because they give an indication of the rate of targeting of civilians. We later added other civilian groups which have played a key role in the popular uprising and later in the armed conflict, such as media, medical, relief and Civil Defense personnel.

For nearly nine years, we have issued daily death toll of victims, as well as daily news on killing incidents. We also issue a monthly report detailing the death toll of victims, whose deaths were documented in Syria during last month, amongst civilians, as well as of those who died due to torture, in addition to issuing a biannual report and annual report, as well as dozens of other special reports documenting the total death toll or the death toll at the hands of one of the parties to the conflict in particular, in addition to a monthly report and special and periodic reports documenting the massacres committed on Syrian soil.

Also, SNHR periodically sends a special form to the United Nations Special Rapporteur on extrajudicial, summary or arbitrary executions, submitting cases of killings on which we were able to document all of the available data, having obtained the consent of each victim’s family members before submitting them.

It should be noted that the United Nations has relied on the Syrian Network for Human Rights for all the statistics it has used in its analysis of victims in the conflict, given SNHR’s prominent role as one of the most credible sources. SNHR has also partnered with numerous United Nations bodies, in addition to governments of states, to provide them with statistics from our databases, in order to serve the path of justice, and ultimately to ensure the accountability and prosecution of criminals. SNHR is also used as a trustworthy source by a large number of Arab and international news agencies and many international human rights organizations.
III. The Syrian Regime Bears Primary Responsibility for the Deaths of Syrian Citizens Due to the COVID-19 Pandemic:

This report does not include all deaths, including those caused by the COVID-19 pandemic, as we mainly document extrajudicial killings, but there is no doubt that the negligence shown by the Syrian regime and its disastrous mismanagement of the Syrian state in recent years are the primary factors behind the massive numbers of deaths from the COVID-19 pandemic and other disease outbreaks and illnesses, as seen in the regime’s neglect of public healthcare and indifference towards citizens’ wellbeing, with the state’s only genuine protection reserved for the ruling family, its entourage and the regime elite. It should always be remembered that the Syrian regime and its Russian ally have repeatedly been documented as having targeted, bombed and destroyed most medical facilities in Syria, and killed hundreds of medical personnel, according to the SNHR’s database, with dozens of these lifesaving medics still classified as having been forcibly disappeared at the regime’s hands. The Syrian regime’s Ministry of Health has announced the deaths of 109 cases in Syria due to the COVID-19 as of August 30, but we believe that this statistic is inaccurate, given the absence of any transparency in the various government ministries, and in view of the supervision of the security services on what is issued by these ministries, which is the case with totalitarian regimes.

The regime’s failure to release arbitrarily detained individuals, particularly the elderly and individuals detained with no charges, primarily around 3,327 medical personnel, provides further clear evidence of the Syrian regime’s primary responsibility for the spread of the COVID-19 pandemic in Syria. The regime, which controls and manages state institutions, has completely failed to provide even the most rudimentary protection to Syrian civilians, but has instead exploited the state institutions to protect and benefit the ruling family in order to ensure their continued rule, even if 13 million Syrian citizens are displaced from their homes to achieve this, with most of those displaced unable to return home since their homes have been ransacked and subjected to widespread looting and destruction by regime forces and affiliated militias.

IV. Death Toll of Civilian Victims:

The beginning of 2020 was accompanied by a violent military operation led by the Syrian regime and its Russian and Iranian allies against the areas outside its control in and around Idlib. The cities and residential neighborhoods in these areas were subjected to massive and indiscriminate bombardment, which resulted in dozens of deaths and the displacement of residents of entire cities, as happened with Ma’aret al Numan and Saraqeb cities and others. The first and second months of the year also saw a marked increase in the death toll, and at the beginning of March, the Russian-Turkish ceasefire agreement entered into force.
On the other hand, the COVID-19 pandemic has spread extensively in most countries worldwide, including Syria, where the pandemic appears to have affected the capabilities of the Syrian regime’s army and affiliated Iranian militias, contributing to a reduction in bombardment against civilians, which reduced the death toll in recent months compared to the first three months of the year; in August, SNHR documented the deaths of 122 civilians, including 21 children and seven women (adult female), killed at the hands of the parties to the conflict and the controlling forces in Syria, bringing the documented death toll of civilian victims since the beginning of 2020 up to September 2020 to 1,235.

The death toll of civilian victims killed at the hands of the parties to the conflict and the controlling forces in Syria since the beginning of 2020 was distributed as follows:

The death toll documented for this month constituted 10% of the year's death toll, with SNHR noting a significant decrease in the death toll since the ceasefire agreement entered into force on March 6, in addition to the spread of the COVID-19 pandemic which has affected the capabilities of the Syrian regime’s army and affiliated Iranian militias. Meanwhile, incidents of killing due to bombings, landmines and fires of unknown source have continued to increase in recent months, with SNHR attributing the largest percentage of deaths among the total death toll during this period to these causes.
The death toll we documented in August 2020 was distributed according to the parties to the conflict and the controlling forces as follows:

A. The main parties:
- Syrian Regime forces (army, security, local militias, and Shiite foreign militias):
  We documented the deaths of 12 civilians at the hands of Syrian Regime forces, including one woman.

- Russian forces:
  We documented the deaths of three civilians at the hands of Russian forces.

- ISIS:
  We documented the deaths of one civilian at the hands of ISIS.

- The Armed Opposition/ The Syrian National Army:
  We documented the deaths of one civilian at the hands of the Armed Opposition/ the Syrian National Army.
- Kurdish-led Syrian Democratic Forces (the Democratic Union Party):
We documented the deaths of eight civilians, including one child and one woman, at the hands of the Kurdish-led Syrian Democratic Forces.

B. Other parties:
We documented the deaths of 97 civilians, including 20 children and five women, at the hands of other parties, distributed as follows:

- Landmines of unknown origin: 25 civilians, including four children.
- Fires of unknown source: 42 civilians, including four children and three women.
- Bombings whose perpetrators have not yet been identified: 23 civilians, including 10 children and two women.
- Killings by unknown persons: Five civilians, including one child.
- Turkish border guards: Two civilians, including one child.

The death toll of civilian victims killed at the hands of the parties to the conflict and the controlling forces documented in August 2020 was distributed across Syrian governorates as follows:
The chart above shows that victims were again killed as a result of Russian air strikes after a two-month hiatus, further showing that the largest death toll in August was documented in Idlib and Daraa governorates, which jointly account for 43 percent of the month’s total death toll of victims, the majority of whom were killed at the hands of other parties.

V. Death Toll of Victims Who Died Due to Torture, and Victims Amongst Media, Medical and Civil Defense Personnel:

A. Death toll of victims who died due to torture
SNHR documented in August 2020 the deaths of 13 individuals due to torture, bringing the death toll of victims who died due to torture at the of the parties to the conflict and the controlling forces in Syria since the beginning of 2020 up to September 2020 to 97.

The death toll of victims whom SNHR documented their death due to torture at the hands of the parties to the conflict and the controlling forces in Syria since the beginning of 2020 was distributed as follows:

We documented in August the deaths of 13 individuals due to torture, including eight at the hands of Syrian Regime forces; despite the issuance of Amnesty Decree No. 6 of 2020, issued by the Syrian regime’s President on March 22, killings due to torture are continuing inside the Syrian regime’s detention centers.
The death toll of victims whom SNHR documented their death due to torture in August 2020 was distributed according to the parties to the conflict and the controlling forces as follows:

A. The main parties:

- Syrian Regime forces: Eight.
- The Armed Opposition/ The Syrian National Army: One.
- Kurdish-led Syrian Democratic Forces (the Democratic Union Party): Three.

B. Other parties: One.

The most notable cases are:
Muhammad Nour Ahmad al Muhammad, a high-school student from Kafr Zita city in the northern suburbs of Hama governorate, was arrested by Syrian Regime forces on Sunday, July 13, 2014, in Hama city. Almost since that date, he has been classified as forcibly disappeared, with the Syrian regime denying his arrest and preventing anyone, even a lawyer, from visiting him. On Thursday, August 27, 2020, his family received information that had been registered as dead on Wednesday, July 15, 2015 at the Civil Registry. SNHR believes that it’s probable that he died due to torture in a regime detention center. SNHR confirms that Syrian Regime forces failed to hand over his body to his family.
Fares Karraf al Hamidi, from Hawija, a 43-year-old man from Hawija Abdi village, which is administratively a part of Tal Abyad city in the northern suburbs of Raqqa governorate, was arrested by Military Police personnel affiliated with the Syrian National Army forces on Monday, June 1, 2020, after being summoned to one of their detention centers in Tal Abyad city. Almost since that date, he has been classified as forcibly disappeared, with the Syrian National Army preventing anyone, even a lawyer, from visiting him or revealing his fate. On Saturday, August 1, 2020, his body was handed over to his family bearing signs of torture.

B. Death toll of medical personnel
SNHR documented in August the death of one doctor as a result of torture in a Syrian regime detention center.

Dr. Ibrahim Abdul Qader al Zu’bi, a cardiologist who was a PhD graduate in electrocardiography from the British University of Leicester, came from al Yadoda town in the western suburbs of Daraa governorate. Dr. al-Zu’aibi, who was born in 1964, was arrested by members of the Syrian regime’s Military Security branch on Monday, June 22, 2020, during a raid on his home in Damascus city’s Baghdad Street and taken to the ‘248’ Military Investigation branch in the city. Almost since that date, he has been classified as forcibly disappeared, with the Syrian regime denying his arrest and preventing anyone, even a lawyer, from visiting him.

On Thursday, July 30, 2020, Syrian Regime forces informed his family that he had died in al Muwasa Hospital in Damascus city. SNHR’s information confirms that Dr. Ibrahim was in good health at the time of his arrest, indicating a strong probability that he died due to torture and lack of healthcare.

C. Death toll of media workers

D. Death toll of Civil Defense personnel
VI. Record of Most Notable Massacres Documented in August:

SNHR documented at least 35 massacres since the beginning of 2020, including one massacre in August as a result of a car bomb of so-far unknown origin exploded in Hasaka governorate.

On Thursday, July 30, 2020, a car bomb of so-far unknown origin exploded at a checkpoint jointly run by Syrian National Army forces and members of the Civil Police near the entrance to Tal Halaf town, which is administratively a part of Ras al Ein city in the northwestern suburbs of Hasaka governorate, resulting in the deaths of six civilians, including three members of the Civil Police, in addition to the deaths of two Syrian National Army fighters, and injured 20 others. SNHR is still trying to contact witnesses and survivors of the incident to obtain more details. Tal Halaf town was under the control of the Syrian National Army forces at the time of the incident.

VII. Conclusions and Recommendations:

Conclusions:

• The evidence we collected indicates that the attacks documented were directed against civilians and civilian objects. Syrian-Russian alliance forces have committed various crimes ranging from extrajudicial killings to detention, torture and enforced disappearance. Their attacks and indiscriminate bombardment have resulted in the destruction of facilities and buildings. There are reasonable grounds to believe that the war crime of attacking civilians has been committed in many cases.

• A large proportion of Syrians were killed as a result of landmines, and none of the perpetrator forces in the Syrian conflict have revealed maps of the locations where landmines were planted.

• The Syrian government has not only violated international humanitarian law and customary law, but has also breached a number of UN Security Council resolutions, particularly resolution 2139 and resolution 2042 on the release of detainees, as well as resolution 2254, all without any accountability.

• The indiscriminate and disproportionate bombardment carried out by the alliance of US-led coalition and the Syrian Democratic Forces is considered a violation of international humanitarian law, with the crimes of indiscriminate killing amounting to war crimes.

• ISIS has violated international humanitarian law, causing the deaths of many civilians.

• The Armed Opposition/ Syrian National Army violated UN Security Council Resolution 2139 through carrying out attacks that are considered to violate customary international humanitarian law, causing civilian casualties or accidental injuries.

• The use of explosive arms to target densely populated areas reflects a criminal and wholly deliberate mentality intended to inflict the greatest possible number of deaths, which is a clear contravention of international human rights law and a flagrant violation of the four Geneva Convention (articles 27, 31, 32).

Recommendations:

Security Council

- The Security Council must take additional steps following its adoption of Resolution 2254, which clearly states that “all parties immediately cease any attacks against civilians and civilian objects as such.”
- The Syrian case should be referred to the International Criminal Court and all those who are responsible should be held accountable, while Russia must stop using the veto, as it is a party to the Syrian conflict, and the UNSC states’ veto power should be withheld when crimes against humanity and war crimes are committed.
- The Security Council should ensure peace and security and implement the principle of responsibility to protect civilians’ lives and to save the Syrian people’s heritage and historical artefacts from destruction, looting and vandalism.
- The Security Council should adopt a resolution banning the use of cluster munitions in Syria, similar to the prohibition on the use of chemical weapons, and include advice on how to safely remove the remnants of such dangerous weapons.
- The four other permanent member states should put pressure on the Russian government to end its support for the Syrian regime, which uses chemical weapons, and expose its involvement in this regard.
- The Security Council should request that all relevant United Nations agencies make greater efforts to provide food, medical and humanitarian assistance in areas where fighting has ceased, and in internally displaced persons camps, and follow-up with those States that have pledged voluntary contributions.

International Community

- In light of the split within the Security Council and its utter inability to take any effective action, action should be taken at the national and regional levels to form alliances to support the Syrian people by protecting them from daily killing, and by lifting sieges, as well as through increasing support for relief efforts. Additionally, the principle of universal jurisdiction should be enacted in local courts regarding these crimes in order to conduct fair trials for all those who were involved.
- SNHR has repeatedly called for the implementation of the ‘Responsibility to Protect’ doctrine in dozens of studies and reports and as a member of the International Coalition for the Responsibility to Protect (ICRtoP) after all political channels through the Arab League’s plan and then Mr. Kofi Annan’s plan proved fruitless, along with the Cessation of Hostilities statements and Astana agreements that followed. Therefore, steps should be taken under Chapter VII of the Charter of the United Nations, while the norm of the ‘Responsibility to Protect’, which was established by the United Nations General Assembly, should be implemented. By failing to do so, the Security Council is still hindering the protection of civilians in Syria.
• Renew pressure on the Security Council to refer the case in Syria to the International Criminal Court.
• Work on fulfilling justice and achieving accountability in Syria through the United Nations General Assembly and the Human Rights Council and to activate the principle of universal jurisdiction.
• Work to launch projects to create maps revealing the locations of landmines and cluster munitions in all Syrian governorates. This would facilitate the process of removing them and educating the population about their locations.

OHCHR

• The OHCHR should submit a report to the Human Rights Council and other organs of the United Nations on the incidents mentioned in this report since these attacks were perpetrated by the parties to the conflict and the controlling forces.
• Train Syrian organizations to undertake clearance of mines and other unexploded ordnance, and raise local awareness of the dangers of such ordnance.
• Establish a platform that brings together a number of Syrian organizations active in documenting violations and providing humanitarian assistance, in order to facilitate an exchange of skills and experiences within Syrian society.
• Work on preparing a special report on the use of landmines in Syria and the risks they pose to civilians, and identify the most prominent locations where landmines were planted.

Independent International Commission of Inquiry (COI)

• Launch investigations into the cases included in this report and previous reports. SNHR is willing to cooperate and provide further evidence and data.

International, Impartial, and Independent Mechanism (IIIM)

Collect further evidence about the crimes documented in this report. Focus on the issue of landmines and cluster munitions within the next report.

The United Nations Special Envoy to Syria

• Condemn the perpetrators of crimes and massacres, and those who were primarily responsible for dooming the de-escalation agreements.
• Revive the peace process so that it can resume its natural course despite Russia’s attempts to divert and distort it, empowering the Constitutional Committee prior to the establishment of a transitional governing body.
The Syrian regime
• Stop indiscriminate shelling and targeting of residential areas, hospitals, schools and markets, and end use of prohibited weapons and barrel bombs.
• End the acts of torture that have caused the deaths of thousands of Syrian citizens in detention centers.
• Reveal the fate of some 84,000 Syrian citizens arrested by the security services whose fate has been concealed to date.
• Ensure compliance with UN Security Council resolutions and customary humanitarian law.
• Provide detailed maps of the locations where the regime planted landmines, especially in civilian areas or near residential communities.

The Russian regime
• Launch investigations into the incidents included in this report, make the findings of these investigations public for the Syrian people, and hold the people involved accountable.
• Compensate all the damaged centers and facilities, rebuild and rehabilitate them, and compensate all the victims’ families, who were killed by the current Russian regime, as well as all the wounded.
• Completely cease the bombing of hospitals, protected objects, and civilian areas, and respect customary international law.
• As a guarantor party in the Astana talks, the Russian regime must stop thwarting de-escalation agreements, and apply pressure on the Syrian regime in order to end all indiscriminate attacks and allow the unconditional passage of humanitarian aid to besieged areas.
• Provide detailed maps of sites where Russian forces have launched cluster munition attacks, issue these to the United Nations and inform the Syrian public about them, thus facilitating the disposal of unexploded ordnance.
• Begin to achieve a breakthrough in the issue of detainees by revealing the fate of 84,000 people disappeared by the Syrian regime.

The Coalition (Us-led coalition and Syrian Democratic Forces)
• The states supporting the SDF should cease all forms of support until the SDF commits itself to complying with the rules of international human rights law and international humanitarian law. This is primarily the responsibility of the supporting states. Providing the SDF with weapons and support while knowing that the SDF violates the rules of international humanitarian law can be seen as a contribution to these violations.
• The SDF should form a special committee to investigate incidents of violations committed by SDF forces, disclose the details of their findings and apologize for them, hold those responsible accountable, and compensate the victims and affected.
• Provide detailed maps of the locations where the SDF planted landmines, especially civilian sites or near residential communities.

The Armed Opposition/ The Syrian National Army:
• Ensure the protection of civilians in all areas under their control. These forces should also take care to distinguish between civilians and military targets and cease any indiscriminate attacks.
• Pledge to cease any arbitrary arrests and investigate incidents that have resulted in violations of international humanitarian law.
• Take punitive action against those who commit violations of international human rights law and international humanitarian law.
• Provide detailed maps of the locations where the Armed Opposition/ Syrian National Army planted landmines, especially civilian sites or near residential communities.

Humanitarian organizations:
• Develop urgent operational plans to secure decent shelter for internally displaced persons.
• Exert efforts in landmine clearance operations in parallel with relief operations whenever the opportunity arises.

Acknowledgment
We thank all family members, relatives and friends of the victims, along with the eyewitnesses and local activists, whose contributions have enriched this report.
