Most Prominent International Agencies that Rely on SNHR Documentation
The Syrian Network for Human Rights (SNHR), founded in June 2011, is a non-governmental, independent group that is considered a primary source for the OHCHR on all death toll-related analyses in Syria.

The Syrian Network for Human Rights works on documenting violations of human rights in Syria, and defending the rights of the Syrian people on the international level. The Network’s database, as well as its human rights publications, are considered the most prominent source for violations of human rights in Syria, as it is relied upon by a large group of international groups that are concerned in the field of human rights, as well as local and international media outlets.

Below is a group of the most prominent international organizations and agencies that cited SNHR’s work in their reports. The links below include samples about each reference.
