The Syrian Network for Human Rights (SNHR), founded in June 2011, is a non-governmental, independent group that is considered a primary source for the OHCHR on all death toll-related analyses in Syria.

The citizen Ahmad al Sagheer

Enforced to Disappear since 2014

SNHR has briefed the UN Working Group on Enforced or Involuntary Disappearances on the case of the citizen, Ahmad al Sagheer, from Tadmur city in the east of Homs governorate, who was aged 52 at the time of his arrest. SNHR urged the UN body to demand that the Syrian authorities release him immediately. Mr. Ramadan was arrested arbitrarily on June 1, 2014 in a raid on his place of residence in al Gharbi neighborhood in Tadmur city by gunmen from the Syrian Regime's Military Security forces. His fate remains unknown to SNHR as well as his family.

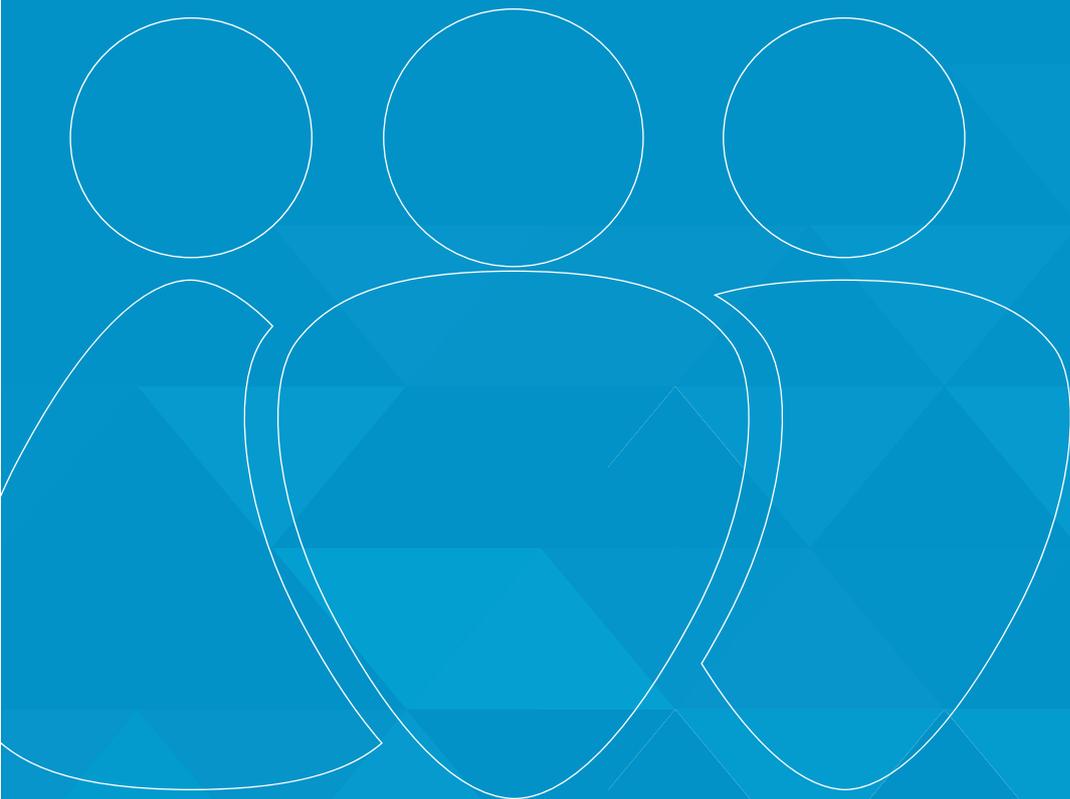

The Syrian authorities have denied any connection with the disappearance of Ahmad al Sagheer. SNHR has been unable to determine his fate, as have his family members, who fear that they may be arrested and tortured themselves if they continue to ask about his whereabouts and fate, as has happened in numerous previous cases.

SNHR has called on the United Nations Committee on Enforced Disappearance to intervene and to demand that the Syrian authorities release Mr. al Sagheer immediately, as well as to expedite investigations into the fate of thousands of other forcibly disappeared citizens whose whereabouts and current conditions must also be revealed.

Although the Syrian government is not a party to the International Convention for the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearances, it is indisputably a party to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and the Arab Charter on Human Rights. Enforced disappearance constitutes a violation of both instruments.

SNHR also confirmed that there are well-founded fears that many of those forcibly disappeared by the Syrian regime since 2011 may have been subjected to torture and possibly killed in regime detention, with the number of citizens forcibly disappeared by the regime continuing to grow.
